acceptable to both¹⁷. In other areas, this method would lead to a quarrel¹⁸ or even a fight, the seller's reaction to too¹⁹ low a price being to call the buyer all sorts of names, such as 'Scoundrel!' 'Rogue!' 'Daytime robber!' In such areas, the acceptable method is for the buyer to offer²⁰ the seller a slightly lower price than the one²¹ asked; the seller agrees to this, then another offer²², still lower, is made and agreed to, and this goes on until at last a price is reached which is the least to which the seller will agree. If this suits the buyer, the sale is made. If²³ not, after a final unsuccessful attempt to beat down the price, he may²⁴ go away to another seller, hoping that one will agree to a²⁵ more reasonable²⁶ price.
